Flying Food Group supports Air India launch

JULY 19, 2017

Flying Food Group (IAD) is catering Air India's new Washington D.C. to New Delhi service.

The thrice-weekly route launched on July 7. It is the first direct service between the two capitals.

"This historic new route effectively links two major global destinations," said Nicolas Rondeau, FFG executive vp of airlines sales. "Air India has been FFG's customer at EWR, ORD and SFO. We welcome them to IAD. It is affirming when an existing customer chooses FFG catering for an added gate," he added.

FFG provides catering services to more than 80 airlines — primarily international — from its strategic network of 22 US facilities.
