New Paris-based airline French Bee has partnered with Flying Food Group in San Francisco to cater its US debut.

The long-haul flights now operate between San Francisco and Paris/French Polynesia four times a week. The airline is focused on combining “low fares with top service and quality.”

FFG executive vp of airline sales, Nicolas Rondeau, said: “Flying Food Group is proud to support the US launch of this dynamic young airline. We look forward to a long-term connection.”
